

What do you like most about your brother/sister?

What's the most embarrassing thing I do?

Describe someone in the family using 3 words.

Describe yourself using 3 words.

Who is the funniest person in our family, and why?

Who is the most thoughtful person in our family, and why?

Who is the best cook in the family?

What's something special you would like to do with Mom or Dad?

What's something unique or different about our family?

What is your favorite family tradition that we have?

What is your favorite thing about our relationship?

What is your least favorite thing about our relationship?

Do you feel like you could talk with me about anything at all?

What would you be most likely to want to lie to me about? Why?

If you got into really big trouble, how do you think I would respond?

Is there something I can do better as your parent that I am not doing now?

What would you want to do if we had a special day together?

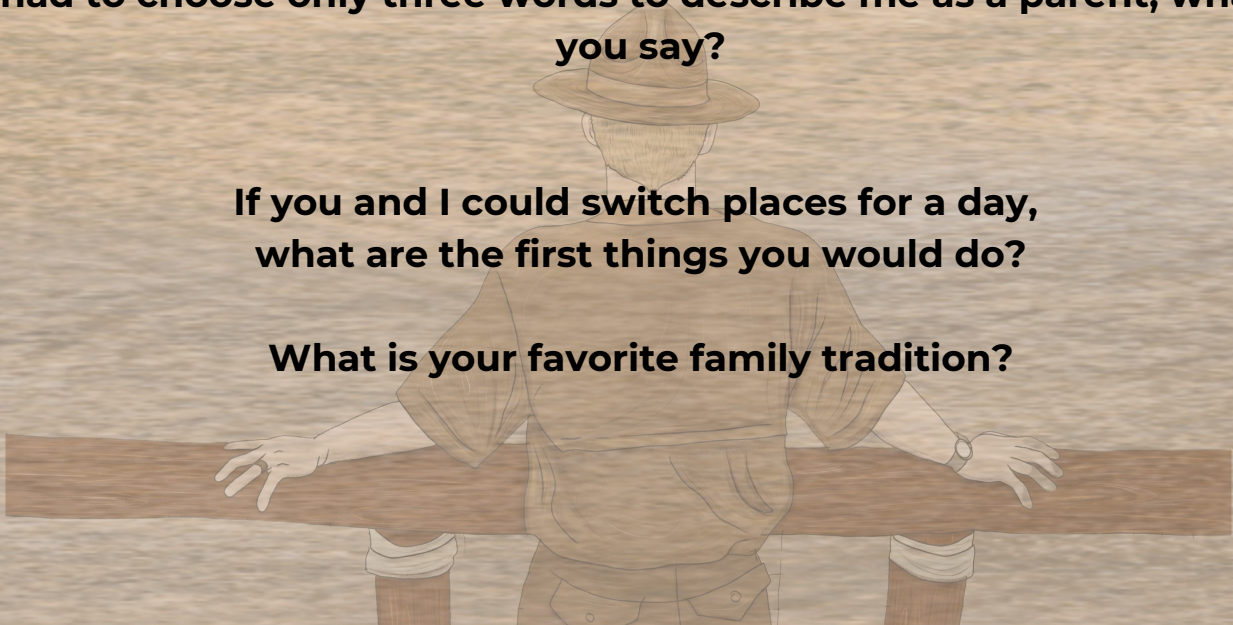

Do I ever embarrass you?

What are the most important things I have taught you?

If you had to choose only three words to describe me as a parent, what would you say?

If you and I could switch places for a day, what are the first things you would do?

What is your favorite family tradition?

Adults should use their best judgment when engaging with the questions on the page. Some questions may cover mature or sensitive topics, and adults must ensure that their children are emotionally and mentally prepared to handle them. Additionally, efforts are made to ensure that the content is informative and up-to-date; there may be inaccuracies or omissions that could impact a child's understanding of a topic. The adult needs to review the question and subject matter and discuss any information with the child to ensure they have a comprehensive knowledge of the subject matter.

How do you think your friends' families compare to ours? Are they about as close? Closer? More distant? Why do you believe that?

What do you think makes a family close?

Can you list the most important rules in our family? What are they?

What do I and your other parent do when you do something against our rules?

Is the discipline in our family fair?

What's the best thing about our family?

What would it be if you could change one thing about each of your parents?

What are the most important things your parents have taught you?

What do you think are the most important qualities of a good parent?

What do you think makes a happy family?

Tell each person in the family why you're glad they're part of the family.

How do you think our family is the same or different from other families?

Do you want to have kids when you grow up? Why or why not?

What kind of parent will you be?

What are the good things about having siblings? What are the bad things?

What is the most important thing to do to have a good relationship with a sibling?

Do you have better or worse relationships with your sibling(s) than your friends?

What do you like best about each of your siblings?

Do you think you will be close to your siblings growing up?

How many of your ancestors can you name, and what do you know about them?

Would you rather time-travel into the past to meet your ancestors or into the future to meet your descendants?

When your descendants look back, what do you want them to say about you?

How are you like each of your parents? How are you different?

What did you do today to help or improve our family life?

Adults should use their best judgment when engaging with the questions on the page. Some questions may cover mature or sensitive topics, and adults must ensure that their children are emotionally and mentally prepared to handle them. Additionally, efforts are made to ensure that the content is informative and up-to-date; there may be inaccuracies or omissions that could impact a child's understanding of a topic. The adult needs to review the question and subject matter and discuss any information with the child to ensure they have a comprehensive knowledge of the subject matter.